Class: T, TH 6b (2:20-3:30 pm)

Office Hours: T, Th 9:30-11:30 pm and other times by appointment.

Course Description

This course provides an introduction to contemporary Chinese politics. It begins with an overview of China in world history. Next, the course covers events and themes from twentieth-century China that demonstrate the current difficulties of being modern and Chinese. Finally, it explores issues, groups, and individuals that animate contemporary Chinese politics, including economic reforms, political transition, social and cultural problems, quality of life dilemmas, the new generation of leaders, foreign policy, and China's future. This class fulfills the M5 LinC requirement.

Goals and Objectives

- a) Learn basic information about Chinese politics, history, institutions, society, economy, and culture.
- b) Understand and take part in policy debates about and media analysis of Chinese politics.
- c) Broaden critical thinking and analytical skills to include politics in non-Western contexts.
- d) Develop comprehension of comparative politics research methods and questions, particularly as concerns the study of Chinese politics.

Course Guidelines

1. All work must be submitted on due date for full credit. Late assignments are NOT accepted.
2. All assignments must be typed, double-spaced, printed, stapled, use complete sentences, correct grammar, spelling, and punctuation. All assignments must be personally handed to the instructor. No handwritten assignments will be accepted. No emailed assignments will be accepted except in case of emergencies and not without prior permission of the instructor.
3. Regular attendance is expected. Assigned work can only be made up 1) after an in-person discussion with the instructor and 2) in cases of appropriately documented family emergencies, extended leave, or school sponsored-commitments. Health Center notes are NOT considered appropriate documentation. If an emergency should arise, you must notify me prior to an assignment's due date and not after. If you plan to miss a class please notify me in advance. Students are allowed a maximum of three absences within this semester. If you miss class more than the allowed times, 5% will be deducted from your final course grade. Another 5% will be deducted from your final course grade for each additional absence. Two late arrivals to class will be counted as an absence. Please be aware that absences are not divided into excused and unexcused. Regardless of the reason, an absence from class is counted as an absence.

4. In case of any crisis or emergency, or an extended absence from class, you must inform your professor through Learning Services or the Academic Dean's Office.

5. Learning disability accommodations: students who wish to request accommodations in this class for support of learning disabilities should contact Learning Services (x1510). Accommodations cannot be provided until authorization is received from the appropriate disability support provider on campus.

6. These guidelines are intended for the benefit of the students as far as clarification of the instructor's expectations for the course; however, in exceptional circumstances the instructor reserves the right to exercise discretion in the application of these guidelines to individual cases or to refer a particular case to the Academic Dean if necessary.

Classroom Expectations

- 1) Respect for others' answers and views. Disruptive behavior during class will result in your dismissal from the class the first time, after that, disciplinary action will be taken.
- 2) Equal time for opposing opinions.
- 3) Please turn off cell phones in class. If yours rings during class, you will be dismissed from class and counted as absent.
- 4) Non-alcoholic drinks are allowed in class, other food is not.
- 5) Attention to course related material only.
- 6) Necessary breaks at the discretion of the instructor.

Course Requirements

A. Graded Requirements

Class Participation-20% of your final grade. Class participation includes coming to class on a very consistent basis, keeping up with assigned readings by thoroughly reading and thinking about the readings before coming to class, active involvement in interactive lectures, substantive contributions to discussions, and engagement with in-class activities. For class participation, effort counts heavily. Attempting to answer a question, asking a question, or voicing an opinion are all part of participation. I will evaluate your participation highly if you: a)attend class regularly; b)discuss the videos and readings I make available; c)raise relevant questions/offer thoughtful comments; d) demonstrate you understand the material by your full involvement during in-class activities. Every class session is counted toward your final participation grade. If you do not participate actively in each class, you will reduce your participation grade by 50% for each given day.

Exams-There will be two take home exams in this course. Each of the exams is 25% of your final grade. These essay exams will strongly emphasize critical reflection on course readings and discussions, rather than memorization of names, dates, and places. Exam questions will be passed out one week prior to each exam's due date in class. Rules governing academic honesty apply. I expect that you will study with other students for the exam, and I encourage such study groups. Discussing answers to questions with fellow students can help you to think through class topics. However, make sure not to write answers that resemble those of the classmates with whom you have studied and expect to get credit. Writing up answers to the questions independently will help you succeed in keeping your work your own and not borrowing someone else's. The exams will be due in class during the sixth and the twelfth weeks. Check the syllabus for exact dates. Exam format: each exam will consist of one short essay and two long essay questions. The exam must be 11 or 12 point font (10 point font will not be accepted), double-spaced, stapled, spell-checked for grammar and spelling, have clearly numbered questions, have a works cited page, and contain appropriate citation of sources for ideas, paraphrases, summaries, and direct quotations. Style of citations is to be either MLA, APA, or Chicago Manual of Style format. The exam should have a cover sheet with your name, the date, and the course number. The entire exam, not including the cover sheet, is to be no less than 6 pages and no more than 8 pages long. Exams over 8 pages will not be accepted. Be sure to follow these guidelines when preparing your exam.

Critical Reasoning Paper-20% of your grade. The critical reasoning paper will be due in week thirteen. See the syllabus for the exact date. The paper will be based on material chosen from the novel assigned for this course, When Red Is Black. Notice that the course schedule below has two chapters from the book, either assigned or recommended () as reading for each week (from week one to week twelve). These readings are scheduled so that you can finish the book well before the paper is due. The paper is to be 2-3 pages, typed, single-spaced, size 12 font. The paper must be at least two full pages and no more than three full pages, single-spaced type. The paper will consist of seven paragraphs and is designed to answer a set of critically analytical questions about the novel in relation to the topic of the course, Chinese politics, as it is covered in the other assigned readings. Critical reasoning papers will be graded according to the rubric for written assignments provided below. Detailed instructions for the paper format and content will be passed out and discussed in class during the first several weeks of the term. On this paper, I encourage you to seek help from the Writing Center. Although short, the assignment asks you to think clearly and to write concisely about a given subject. Writing Center tutors can be very helpful in this process. You will also be expected to proofread the paper and use correct citations according to either MLA or Chicago Manual of Style formats. Points will be deducted for grammar errors, spelling mistakes, incorrect citations, and failure to cite material. While the topic of plagiarism and examples of correct quotation and citation format, paraphrasing, and summarizing will be covered in some class sessions, seeking help from the Writing Center can only improve your work.

Bi-weekly email questions-10 % of your final grade. Every other week, beginning in the second week, you will be required to email me a critical question based on the assigned readings in that two week period. The question must be in the form of a “how,” “why,” or “in what way(s)” question. It cannot take the form of a “who,” “what,” “when,” or “where” question. You are not asked to provide the answer to the question, only the question itself. However, because many of these questions will be used in class discussions, it would be useful for you to have some sense of what a possible answer to the question might be when you come to class. This will help your active participation in discussion. Remember, in discussion it is effort rather than always giving a correct answer that counts. Email questions to me at: fischler@moravian.edu. These questions are due by 4:30 p.m. on each Thursday of weeks beginning with even numbers, but see the syllabus for specific due dates (they are all marked). I will end my office hours on these Thursdays by 4: 30 p.m. and will check my email at that time. Make sure your email is in by then. The best way to approach this is not to wait until the Thursday the question is due, but to email it to me well in advance. I will accept emailed questions at any time within each two week period. So, if an intriguing question catches you in the reading, email it to me. This will insure that you avoid any computer malfunctions (which are not an accepted excuse for late emailed questions). Emailed questions will be worth 10 points each and will be graded according to the rubric for written assignments provided below.

Pop quizzes-If class discussions do not yield evidence of careful reading and thought, I may administer unannounced (“pop”) quizzes. These quizzes will be factored in as part of your participation grade (20 points each). These quizzes will help me determine if quiet students are keeping silent because they are shy or because they are not keeping up with the reading assignments. There will be no make-up quizzes.

B. Grade Components

Your final grade in this course will be determined as follows:

Bi-weekly email questions	10%
Class Participation	20%
Exam I	25%
Exam II	25%
Critical reasoning paper	20%
	100%

Guidelines (Rubric) for Written Assignments

(Written by Ben Slote and modified slightly by Ann Bomberger)

1) Written work in the A range is based on an original, logical and coherently organized set of ideas; it makes a clear and persuasive argument (even if the reader disagrees with its argument); it brings in specific, relevant examples to back up its assertions; its points, at each turn, are clearly articulated: the words carry precise meaning, they don't obscure it; its sentences use only the words their ideas require, not any more; its paragraphs have distinct though related roles in the essay's cohesion as a whole, each holding one thoroughly asserted idea (not two competing ideas, not one idea half-asserted); if appropriate it accurately and thoughtfully uses other sources;

and its sentences are without the grammatical, spelling, or typographical mistakes that exacting proof-reading would catch. (All of this takes a lot of work. If it is all very nearly accomplished, the essay usually earns an A-.)

2) Written work in the B range: a very good paper, the writing of which is clearly, thoughtfully, and effectively executed. What sometimes prevents an "A" is a lack of originality, thorough thinking or careful proofreading. If two of these virtues are absent and the other areas of the paper are strong, the essay will usually earn a B-.

3) Written work in the C range: some conspicuous flaw usually earns an essay a C; its argument is really underdeveloped, it contains only minimal textual support, it has problems with organization and/or sentence clarity, it is in dire need of proofreading.

4) Written D work either contains more than one of the large problems cited in the "C" description or finds another way to convince its reader that the author has not spent nearly enough time on the thinking or writing in the essay.

5) Written work that earns an F misses on all criteria (originality, articulateness, persuasiveness, organization, the absence of mechanical mistakes).

Final Grade Scale (in percentage, not points)

93-100	A
90-92.9	A-
87-89.9	B+
83-86.9	B
80-82.9	B-
77-79.9	C+
73-76.9	C
70-72.9	C-
67-69.9	D+
63-66.9	D
60-62.9	D-
less than 60	F

Note: It is within the instructor's purview to apply qualitative judgment in determining grades for any assignment and for the course final grade.

Academic Honesty Policy

All students are expected to follow the principles of academic honesty as set out in the policies of Moravian College. See the Student Handbook for details. Any and all written work must be done in your own words (with the exception of direct quotations which are clearly indicated as such), and written work must include proper citations indicating the sources for any ideas, concepts, facts, or other information derived from others, whether or not you have restated it in your own words. Any cases of suspected cheating or plagiarism will be referred to the Academic Affairs Office. Academic dishonesty may result in a failing grade in the course.

Schedule and Assignments (Schedule may be changed at the discretion of the instructor; advance notice will be given)

Readings marked with  are assigned the date when I recommend you have them read. All other readings are due on the date assigned on the syllabus and will be discussed in class.

*You will be expected to spend 2 1/2-3 hours on work outside of class for every hour in class.

*Be sure to bring assigned readings to class each day. On days when chapters in the Qiu book are recommended (), but not assigned as readings, I will still cover some of the material in the chapters in class and take any questions you have.
