Course Description: This course presents an opportunity for all of us to reconsider our notions of mental health and illness. One focus will be on the attempt to objectively define various behavior disorders using DSM-IV criteria. We will also look at contemporary research and theory concerning possible etiology, treatment and prevention of behavior disorders. Case presentations will be used to increase student awareness of the experiences of persons who are said to exhibit “abnormal” behavior. Student discussion and participation will enliven the course and are thus highly valued.

Objectives: After successfully completing this course, you will be able to:

1. Use the Diagnostic & Statistical Manual-IV (DSM-IV) of the American Psychiatric Association to determine the most likely diagnosis based upon the symptoms presented in a case.
2. Apply your knowledge of research methodology in determining the validity of research results in the field of abnormal psychology.
3. Research and write a literature review to answer a question about a mental disorder of your choice.
4. Work in a group to develop and portray a case study for others to diagnose.
5. Discuss contemporary biopsychosocial theories and treatments for a variety of mental disorders.

Final Exam: Chap. 6 (pp. 190-8 only), Chap. 11, 14, 15, 16 (pp. 515-532 only)

Grading Procedure:

Exams (2 in class exams)	30% (15% each)
Case Presentation	15%
Literature Review	20%
Attendance &amp; Homework	15%
Final Exam	20%

The in-class exams will be approximately 60% multiple choice questions and 40% short essay and will not be cumulative. However, should a student miss an exam for any reason, or wish to raise a low grade, he or she will take a cumulative final. The score obtained on the cumulative exam will then count twice: once as the final exam and also as a replacement for the missed or low scoring exam.

Case presentations will involve students working in groups of three or four to present a case for the class to diagnose and formulate a treatment plan. Books of case studies are on reserve for the course at the library to help you with ideas. The case must be based on a disorder covered in class prior to the presentation date. Cases selected must be approved by me before you begin! The following format/procedure is suggested:

- (a) meet as a group to develop a case that will best illustrate the disorder(s) you will be portraying.
- (b) assign roles to group members (typically therapist, client and some “significant other” like a spouse, child, parent)
- (c) develop background “case history” material to introduce the case to the class (in real life this would often come out of the client’s file)
- (d) prepare a role play interview of the client and significant other by the therapist—be certain to review enough material about the disorder to know how the client would behave and how he/she would related to their significant other.
- (e) be prepared to lead a discussion on diagnosis and treatment options.

The entire presentation from case history to discussion should take no more than 30 minutes, so plan your time carefully.

The literature review will involve the review of at least 5 articles on a disorder you will select. The disorder must appear in the textbook, although it does not need to be a disorder that we cover in class. You will be given specific instructions on the process of researching and writing this paper in class beginning on Monday, January 22nd. Pay careful attention to the deadlines for the various phases of the paper research and writing process. Missing deadlines will result in 3 points per day deducted from the Attendance/Assignments grade. Late papers will be accepted with a penalty of 3 points per day deducted from the literature review grade. Papers based on unapproved topics or references will not be accepted. Last date for acceptance of references appears on the Class Schedule.

Attendance and Homework will make up the final 15% of your grade. I will keep track of attendance by asking you to sign an attendance sheet each day. Please be aware that since attendance is a part of your grade, signing another student in, or asking another student to sign you in, is a breach of Academic Honesty. The attendance portion of this grade will start at 100 points and will be reduced by 4 points for an unexcused absence, 2 points with a valid excuse (e.g. doctor's note, note from other professor or from Student Services). Library assignments completed correctly and on time will count toward this grade, as will other homework assignments distributed during the semester.

The closed book portion of the final exam will be of the same format as the other two exams, and will include only material from the final third of the course. There will also be an open-book cumulative portion worth 5%, which will be discussed in greater detail well in advance of the exam.

Calculating your Grade:

To calculate your final grade, I first add any extra credit points earned and then weight each grade according to the percentages given above. For example, if an exam is worth 15% and you score an 80 on it, I multiply (.15) (80) for a point total of 12. Adding these points together for all the grading components listed above will give you your final grade for the course (out of 100 points). These points are then converted to a letter grade as follows:

92.6-100	=	A
89.6 – 92.5	=	A-
86.6– 89.5	=	B+
82.6 – 86.5	=	B
79.6 – 82.5	=	B-
76.6 – 79.5	=	C+
72.6 – 76.5	=	C
69.6 – 72.5	=	C-
66.6 – 69.5	=	D+
62.6 – 66.5	=	D
59.6 – 62.5	=	D-
less than 59.6	=	F
