OHBA: Office Hours By Appointment, at mutually convenient times. and places.

Just ask, in person, by email or telephone; include some times that work for you!

These hours and any changes to them will be distributed and posted on my office door.

Prerequisites: College Algebra (see, for example, http://www.wtamu.edu/academic/anns/mps/math/mathlab/col_algebra/index.htm, especially tutorials: 1-6, 14-17, 21-23, 25-28, 30-32, 34-35, 42-47)

Goals: Students who complete this course should be able to:

1. Describe a variable numerically and graphically.
2. Describe relationships between variables numerically and graphically
3. Conduct and explain the results of a regression analysis.
4. Forecast (predict, . . .) a time series value and explain its meaning.

Texts & Materials:

Moore, David S., G.P. McCabe, W.M. Duckworth, and L.C. Alwan (2009) The Practice of Business Statistics. New York: W.H. Freeman.

A calculator (EVERY class!), 3x5 cards, colored pencils, straight edge,

Course Work:	#	@ pts	@ pct	Points
Prerequisite Pretest				100	10.0%
Homework	7	50	5.0%	350	35.0%
Hourly Exams	2	150	15.0%	300	30.0%
Final Exam				250	25.0%
Attendance				0	0.0%
Total				1,000	100.0%

Policies:

Academic Honesty: The policy² in the current Moravian College Student Handbook³ applies.

Attendance: I use attendance to:

1. Attach faces to names,
2. Know who is present and ready to work at the scheduled time,
3. Assist the Academic Affairs Office when a student withdraws, and
4. Guide benefit-of-the-doubt decisions when course grades are due.

Attendance does not affect your grade, so I do not consider the reason for absences, but preparation and participation matters more than a grade step per class:

- A. The step between letter grades is 10% of course points (B to A, C+ to B+, etc), so the first 99 points of the 1000 available would earn a “J+” if letter grades kept going.
- B. A grade step is one-third of a letter grade, or 3.33% of the total available.
- C. Class meetings support graded projects and exams, so preparation for and participation in each one is implicitly worth 3.4% (100%/28), a bit more than a grade step.

Economics 156B/C: Economic & Business Statistics Syllabus (Fall 2009): 27 August 2009

Computers: Laptop, netbook, etc. lids must be closed except for assigned activities.

Confidentiality: The Buckley Amendment (FERPA, 1974) forbids posting grades or discussing them (and other confidential matters) by email.

Due Dates: Except by prior approval assignments must be turned in before their deadline. Problem sets must be submitted in class. Exams must be taken as scheduled. Else, you will receive zero points for that activity (20% or more of the course grade).

Electronics: Bring a calculator to every class, but turn off all other electronics, including wireless gear (headsets), cell phone, personal digital assistant (blackberry, etc), music player (iPod, etc.) during class.

Email Do not submit ANYTHING for evaluation by email without PRIOR permission.

Exam Aids: You may use no aids except those listed on review materials and exams.

Extra Credit There are many ways to show your learning, so there are none. If you want to know more about a topic and your GPA is 2.7+, ask about independent study.

- See me as soon as you suspect you could use extra help! That's why I'm here!
- The Economics and Business Dept & Learning Center (1510) will help find a tutor.
- Record your grades to help you know if you need extra help.
- Grading requires qualitative judgments that are not easily translated to a numeric scale. See me during office hours or by appointment for questions on any grades.

Group Study is great, but all material you turn in for evaluation must be your individual work unless the assignment specifically authorizes group work. Do not let enthusiasm lead to material that appears to be the work of more than one person.

Handouts including this syllabus will be at p/econ/brower/m260 after class distribution.

Learning and Other Disabilities: If you wish to disclose a disability and request accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), you must first meet with Mrs. Laurie Roth (1510; Office of Learning Services for learning disabilities or ADD/ADHD) or Dr. Ronald Kline (1510; the Counseling Center for all other disabilities).

Make Up After Absence: Read the assignment(s) and do any assignment(s). If you:

- Miss a class or two, see a colleague for notes, download any handouts, then see me.
- For a planned absence, see me in advance. There are no make ups or extended due dates for travel except College-scheduled trips.
- For unexpected extended absences, contact me and Learning Services (x1510) asap.
- “Build the _____” CANNOT be made up, but a colleague can turn yours in for you.

Returned Work is filed by last name in an accordion folder (“Dr Brower's Out Box”) outside my office door if you are absent. The folder's contents are shredded 48 hours after the Registrar's deadline for faculty to submit course grades.

Syllabus and Calendar changes are distributed in advance; use the current version!
