"Music is NOT an International language. It consists of a whole series of EQUALLY LOGICAL, but DIFFERENT systems."

Course Objectives

- To gain an understanding of the function of music and the process of "making music" from a global perspective
- To develop a capacity and eagerness to appreciate and further explore the diversity of the world's music and cultures
- To cultivate musical instincts that will enhance an understanding of the process of "making music," listening to music and verbalizing your thoughts and observations
- To develop musical skills appropriate to further study of world cultures
- To Develop appropriate research tools and abilities

Student Outcomes

At the conclusion of this course, students will be able to:

- distinguish musical styles and genres of Ghana, North India, Indonesia, and Japan.
- describe the major cultural attributes of societies in West Africa, Northern India, Java, Bali, and Japan.
- identify representative musical instruments and vocal attributes from African, and Asia both aurally and visually.
- perform representative djembe patterns in a group setting
- apply musical information to new musical settings outside of the Western sphere of influence.
