This course will pursue a solid understanding of (1) the process by which effective systems are designed and developed, (2) the key components of an effective entity-wide internal control system, (3) the process by which efficient database design can be used to improve accounting information flow, and (4) the contemporary issues involved in providing assurance services for systems and database reliability.

All students are expected to adhere to the college policy on academic honesty as outlined in the Student Handbook accessible on the Moravian Web Page. In particular, you must do your own work for anything to be handed in and graded. It is O.K. to ask/work with other people, however, you must type your own solution to each problem/exercise except as noted in the individual projects. Team projects (SAP) must be typed and include the date and names of group members and are worth a maximum of 30 points each. If QuickBooks Pro is available we will explore the use of an accounting information system outlined in Part 4 of the book. Cell phones are not to be used during class meeting times. However, if you are expecting an emergency call please let the instructor know and place you phone on vibrate and take the call outside of the class room.
