English 103 meets the M2 (Literature) requirement for LinC. English majors pursuing teacher certification may count one course from among English courses 101-105 as an elective in the English major.

Course Objectives

- To study selected major works in the literature of the Western world, written originally in ancient or modern foreign languages but read for this course in English translations
- By studying these works, to understand better the roots and evolution of Western society, its distinctiveness as a culture, and one's relationship to it
- To become more aware of one's own expectations of and responses to both Western literature and literature generally
- To develop skills in literary analysis
- To practice the oral and written communication of ideas

Required Texts

Mack, Maynard, et al., ed. The Norton Anthology of World Masterpieces. 5th Continental ed. New York: Norton, 1987. Print.

Course RequirementsProposals (25%)

Five proposals for course readings will be submitted to the instructor electronically according to the schedule outlined on page 4 of this syllabus. The class proposals will be compiled and forwarded by the instructor to all students in English 103. Each 90-100 word proposal will recommend at least 20 pages for class study from among all the readings in the designated anthology section. Each proposer will endeavor to persuade our community of readers to agree with her or his choice. Each proposal will be graded by the instructor and worth 5% of the final grade. All proposals will be read by every English 103 class member prior to a class discussion and choice at the next class meeting. The selection made by the class will then be the assigned reading for that day and for the following class meeting.

Research Essay (25%)

How has Dante's Inferno inspired later artists? What have they borrowed from his masterpiece? How have they adapted Dante's work—and why? A three-page essay (500-750 words) on the influence of Dante's Inferno on a specific work or portion of a work by a later writer, musician, game creator, or visual or performance artist will be due in hard copy at the class meeting on Wednesday, February 24. The essay will be supported by reference to at least one passage from the original work and at least two informational, critical, or analytical sources dealing with the later creative work influenced by the original. The essay will be documented in the format prescribed by the Modern Language Association (MLA), including parenthetical in-text citations and a works-cited page separate from and in addition to the minimum three pages of discursive text.

Mid-term Examination (20%)

A mid-term examination on Wednesday, March 2, will address readings studied from anthology sections dealing with the Ancient World and the Middle Ages.

Final Examination (30%)

A comprehensive final examination will be administered on Thursday, May 5, 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.

Grading

The final grade will, in general, be calculated according to the weighted values listed above. Late work will be penalized. A missed examination may be re-scheduled at the discretion of the instructor for a valid, documented reason (for example, a medical or family emergency or a college-related commitment approved by the instructor by prior arrangement). The instructor will apply both quantitative and qualitative judgments in determining grades for individual assignments and for the course.

Grading equivalents:

A+	97-100	B+	87-89	C+	77-79	D+	67-69
A	94-96	B	84-86	C	74-76	D	64-66
A-	90-93	B-	80-83	C-	70-73	D-	60-63
						F	0-59

The instructor's determination of a student's final grade will also be informed by the student's classroom performance. Four aspects of scholarly behavior are considered in assessing classroom performance. (1) Attendance is basic. Students are expected to attend class regularly. Absences and lateness will be noted and will negatively affect the grade. (2) Just showing up, however, is not enough. Attention to class proceedings is also expected, as well as active participation in class discussions and other class activities. Success in these areas will depend on timely completion of reading assignments and other preparations for class meetings. (3) Leadership may be demonstrated in a variety of ways in both whole-class and small group settings, for example, framing questions for class or small group discussion, summarizing class discussions, or reporting results of group discussions. (4) Collaboration is equally important, especially in contributing to group work, such as discussions, reading aloud, and problem-solving. Performance activities and table readings of dramatic scenes are further examples of demonstrated teamwork.

Academic Honesty

Students in this course should refer to the statement on academic honesty at Moravian College in the current Student Handbook, available online by searching AMOS using the keywords “honesty policy.” Students must retain copies of all written work submitted to the instructor, as well as all notes, drafts, and materials used in preparing assignments. These are to be made available for inspection by the instructor at any time. Questions about appropriate collaboration, proper documentation, and other honesty issues can be confusing. If in doubt, ask the instructor.

FYI

- This syllabus, including the schedules of proposals, readings, writing assignments, and examinations on pages 4-6, is subject to change.
- Assigned readings should be completed prior to the class meeting noted on the schedule on pages 5-6.
- In order to be successful, students should expect to work at least ten hours per week outside of class in preparation.
- Students who wish to request accommodations in this class for a disability must contact the Academic Support Center, on the lower level of Monocacy Hall, or by calling 610-861-1401. Accommodations cannot be provided until authorization is received from the Academic Support Center.
